

Patricia Lashley Leon-Charles

Bio

Patricia Lashley Leon-Charles is a Trinidadian born creative writer, poet, public speaker and Cultural Diverse Arts Advocate. Her previous works included mentoring and lifting the profiles of culturally diverse Artists in the Region. Patricia was featured on BBC Politics as part of their Bi-centennial Anniversary events of the Abolition of the Transatlantic Slave Trade. She was twice invited to West Minister for her outstanding work in the Region. She was the lead project manager and designer of the Untold Stories project www.untoldstories.org.uk in Cambridge. In recent years Patricia has become a Fibromyalgia Warrior, haven't been diagnosed a few years ago. She is currently working on an anthology of poems, a memoir and a self-help book which she is aiming to publish in 2016. Patricia is married with two children and lives in Cambridge. You can follow her on facebook via <https://www.facebook.com/patricia.lashleycharles>